EXCISE THE ISSUE.

Warner Miller Says the Lines are Drawn Between the Two Parties.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Ex-Senator Warner Miller was at the Fifth Avenue Hotel yesterday. When asked for an opinion upon the stand taken by the Democrats concerning the excise question, he said: "I don't think there is any opinion to express. The excise question is to be the only issue in the present campaign. Everything has given way before it. The Democrats have taken a stand diametrically opposed to that taken by the Republicans. All the issues are clearly defined, and there should be no doubt as to the result. The feeling concerning the violation of the law was manifested even in the Democratic convention, by the way in which some of the delegates of the country districts expressed themselves when it came to a vote upon the question. The battle is on, and we certainly are on the right side. The Republican party will stand solidly by the issue. The Democracy is a party that believes in sectional platforms. It has made this thing an open fight, and will be overwhelmed. The majority of the people who vote do not favor the unlimited desecration of the Sabbath. As for local option, that is not practicable. To attempt to put that in operation would entail endless difficulty. Besides, a municipality cannot make laws. The state should be supreme. It is the function of the legislature to make laws. But the real thing is that the Republican party is the party of the churches and the pulpits. It accentuates the better doctrines and has always fought for a proper observance of the Sabbath, and we shall have their support, and that means that we shall win surely."

Mr. Miller was asked what would be the result if the Republican county convention of this county should declare in favor of local option. He replied: "If such a thing should happen, the result could not be other than disastrous, as it would be practically an endorsement of the Democratic platform. This is a state issue, and the county convention has no right to attempt to change it. It would be tantamount to a change of politics or a bolt of the state convention to take such a step as that. I do not believe that there will be any opposition to the Republican plank from any part of the Republican party."

SUPERIOR'S PREACHER-MAYOR.

Supreme Court Confirms the Council's Action in Ousting Him.

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 27.—The supreme court has confirmed the action of the Superior city council in ousting Superior's preacher-mayor, Starkweather, from office. The opinion by Justice Winslow reviews the case at length, and concludes that the evidence taken shows fully that Mayor Starkweather was guilty of extorting money from city employes to re-imburse him for his campaign expenses. The money was collected by others, and the mayor claimed that it was told him that it was voluntarily given.

ROME, Sept. 27.—The Voce della Verita says that the letters and telegrams of sympathy received by the pope on the occasion of the recent Italian fetes commemorative of the entry of King Victor Emmanuel into Rome contained over a million signatures.

Yale Seniors to Wear Caps and Gowns Every Sunday.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 27.—The Yale Senior class of the academic department has voted to wear caps and gowns every Sunday throughout the school year, being the first class at Yale ever voting to do so. For two years classes have worn them on Sundays and state occasions during the spring term, but never throughout the year. The caps and gowns have arrived, and will be donned next Sunday.

TO PROHIBIT PRIZE FIGHTING.

Governor Culberson's Proclamation Assembling the Legislature.

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 27.—At midnight last night Governor Culberson issued the following proclamation for a session of the legislature to pass a law prohibiting prize fighting:

"Whereas, a decision of the presiding judge of the court of criminal appeals, lately rendered, will embarrass the execution of the laws of the state against prize fighting and other associated infractions of good order and public peace now imminent and threatened; and

"Whereas, there is no certainty of determination of the soundness of said decision by a court of final resort for existing emergencies; and

"Whereas, it is proper, in avoidance of every pretext for disregarding the laws, that all controversy respecting them should be removed by legislation and all reasonable public means resorted to in the first instance to enforce them; and

"Inasmuch as the present legislature unanimously passed such a prohibitory law on the sixteenth and twenty-fourth days of April, to become effective August 1, 1895, as part of the penal code, it should require a session of only a few days at a small cost to remove any possible defect and put the law into immediate operation, and as an extraordinary occasion has arisen requiring the legislature to be convened in a special session.

"Now therefore, I, Charles A. Culberson, governor of the state of Texas, by virtue of the authority vested in me by the constitution thereof, do hereby call a special session of the twenty-fourth legislature to be convened in the city of Austin, beginning at noon, Tuesday, October 1, 1895, for the following purposes:

"To denounce prize fighting and kindred practices in clear and unambiguous terms, and prohibit the same by appropriate pains and penalty, putting the law into immediate operation and making necessary provision for its enforcement, so that the proposed exhibition of this character within this state may be prevented, the undoubted will of the people upon the subject respected, and this affront to the moral sense and enlightened progress of Texas averted.

"To consider and act upon such other matters as may be presented pursuant to section 40, article 3, of the constitution."

BROTHERHOOD OF ST. ANDREW.

Election of Officers at the Tenth Annual Convention.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 27.—The Brotherhood of St. Andrew opened its tenth annual convention at Library Hall yesterday, after religious exercises at Christ Cathedral, where Bishop Dudley of Kentucky made an address of welcome. About four hundred delegates attended the opening session, and more arrived on the afternoon trains. The committee on permanent organization reported at the afternoon session the following recommendations, which were adopted: President, John P. Faure, New York; vice presidents, E. P. Balfer, Chicago; B. L. Wiggins, Sewanee, Tenn.; H. W. D. English, Pittsburg; B. P. Pearce, Washington. Secretaries were also appointed, and the reports of committees consumed the remainder of the day's session.

Severe Thunder on Long Island.

LYNBROOK, Long Island, Sept. 27.—A thunderstorm of unusual severity passed over this place about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, accompanied by terrific flashes of lightning, which struck houses and trees and knocked a woman senseless, probably causing fatal injuries. The lightning struck the house of Henry S. Abrams, on Union avenue, and a servant named Sarah Scott was probably fatally shocked.

ABUSES OF SAILORS.

Treasury Commission Making a Secret Investigation.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The difficulty in obtaining American sailors for the new warships and cruisers has aroused the Washington authorities to the condition of the seamen in the merchant marine, and a special committee appointed by the Treasury Department has been secretly at work in this and other ports during the last three months, investigating the alleged abuses to which the sailor is subjected both afloat and ashore. So quickly was this investigation conducted that even the ship owners and agents were not aware of the presence of the commission, which consists of Special Agents Baldwin, Irving and Durham.

Special Agent Baldwin said that the investigation had convinced the members of the commission that the claims of the sailors are just in every particular. He continued: "We visited the offices of shipping agents, and both there and along the streets we found plenty of idle seamen who told us horrible tales of brutality and hardships, and on boarding ships we found that the claims setting forth that the seamen were underpaid, overworked, poorly fed and used like slaves were altogether too true."

Agent J. H. Williams, of the Atlantic Coast Seamen's Union, who assisted the commission, said: "The government knows now why the navy cannot secure men enough to man its ships. We proved that there is more brutality practiced on board American ships than on those of any other nation, and I am pleased to state that our recommendations and advice were recognized as valuable."

PERMANENT PEACE PROPOSED.

Ostensibly Friendly Meeting of the Rival Chiefs in Samoa.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 27.—The United Press correspondent at Apia, Samoa, writing under date of September 11, says that the most important event that had taken place there in many months was a meeting between King Malietoa and Tamasese, his political opponent. Tamasese arrived in Apia August 27 and requested British Consul Woodward to arrange a meeting. This subsequently took place at the German consulate, and to all appearances the two met cordially. Tamasese expressed a desire for a general peace, and His Majesty responded in a similar spirit. A letter was written to the rebel chiefs of Aana, from which district Tamasese had come, asking them to be present at a general gathering of chiefs in the latter part of the present month, when the present situation would be discussed. Later in the day Tamasese took his departure, and nothing of consequence has been heard of him since.

While this meeting of the heads of the rival parties would seem to indicate the establishment of permanent peace in Samoa, it is generally believed that Tamasese had some other motive in coming to Apia. In this connection the fact is known that the natives are quietly endeavoring to purchase more rifles.

BY TWO MASKED MEN.

Occupants of a Kansas Store Lined up and Robbed.

SPRINGDALE, Kansas, Sept. 27.—Last evening two masked men entered the general store in this place, and drawing revolvers commanded all the occupants to line up along the wall and hold up their hands. The proprietor and six other men hastened to comply with the order and were speedily relieved of their valuables. O. C. Chapin, a contractor, entered the store at this moment to seek shelter from the rain, and he was also given a place in the line and relieved of a gold watch and $80. The bandits then backed out of the store, mounted their horses and escaped.

Railroad Accident on the Baltimore & Ohio.

TUNNELTON, W. Va., Sept. 27.—Passenger train No. 1 on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad at this place early this morning side-wiped passenger train No. 4, lying on the switch. A sleeper crowded with passengers was totally demolished and the engine of No. 1 wrecked. United States Marshal Garden of Wheeling, W. Va., and ex-Secretary of State William A. Ohley, of Charleston, who were in the sleeper, were terribly scalded by escaping steam, and both will probably die. Miss Lulu Downtain, librarian of the state, who was also a member of the party, was probably fatally injured. Several other passengers were injured slightly.

Probably Successful Attempt at Suicide.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Sept. 27.—Lyman Tarr of Rockport, a veteran of the civil war, while suffering from delirium tremens attempted suicide today by cutting his throat in a cell at the police station, where he was waiting to be sent to the inebriates' home at Foxboro. His recovery is doubtful.

HARRISON'S MAGNANIMITY.

Endorses for Mayor a Man Who Voted Against Him.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—A Tribune special from Indianapolis says: The pressure has been excessively strong for General Harrison to signify what stand he would take in reference to the candidacy for mayor of Preston B. Trusler, who failed, it is charged, to vote for the head of the Republican ticket in 1892. In an interview last night ex-President Harrison, speaking of law and order, said:

"The importance of an honest, economical, business administration of city affairs and the firm enforcement of all the laws cannot be overstated. A city so managed attracts business and population. I believe we have these things, and that we shall continue them if Mr. Trusler is elected. The idea that a mayor or chief of police is at liberty to permit any law or ordinance to be violated is monstrous. It is not at all a question whether I like the law, or whether the officer likes the law. Such questions are for the legislature and council. To find fault with an officer for enforcing the law is to repudiate our system of government, and to vote against a candidate because he is pledged to enforce the laws is to associate one's self with law breakers."

The only reference General Harrison made to Mr. Trusler's alleged defection was as follows: "Such considerations may have an appropriate weight in party conventions, but when any feeling of personal resentment can only be gratified by the sacrifice of the true interests of the city it ought to be suppressed. On sober second thought no man will be satisfied with himself if he allows such influences to direct his vote."

Destructive Wind and Electric Storm.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 27.—Reports received from Kent, Montcalm and Muskegon counties tell of destructive wind and electric storms there Wednesday night. Wind blew down the Good Templars' hall, three miles from Lake View, entirely demolishing it. Some of the heaviest timber was carried eighty rods. The new Moffett school was moved from its foundation, as were also residences. Barns were destroyed by lightning, and the downpour of rain flooded the streets. From all points come reports of similar disasters from the effects of the storm.

This Morning's News.

A SOVEREIGN PEOPLE.

Crushed to the Ground by Corruption and Coercion.

Ireland Robbed of Her Prestige by Great Britain.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—Birth was given by the Irish national convention yesterday afternoon to an organization which had for its avowed object the independence of Ireland, and a republic by a policy of physical force. The plan closely resembles that of the old Fenian brotherhood. The introductory to the report of the committee on ways and means and plan of organization is here given:

"The new movement" organization shall be known by the style and title of the Irish National Alliance. It shall have for its object the securing of the independence of Ireland by any means within its power, consistent with the laws and usages of civilized nations. The qualifications for membership shall be good moral character, birth on Irish soil, or descendant from Irish parentage on paternal or maternal side or both, and the taking of the following pledge of honor:

"I hereby pledge my word and honor to aid by every means within my power, in conformity with the constitution and bylaws of the Irish National Alliance, in securing the independence of Ireland."

This organization shall be governed by a president, vice president, treasurer and an executive council of nine members, who shall hold office for two years, or until their successors are elected and duly qualified.

A two-thirds vote of the executive council shall be necessary to overrule any motion or act of the present Irish National Alliance.

The president, vice president and one member of the executive council, such member to be selected by the executive council, shall be in charge of the funds of the organization.

The state organizations shall be modeled on the national plan, and all authority to organize must come from the national executive, and no other authority to organize shall be valid.

The initiation shall be $1, and dues 50 cents a quarter, payable in advance.

Each local subdivision of the Irish National Alliance shall be known as a council. Each council shall transmit quarterly to the national treasurer 75 per cent of all moneys received, after legitimate expenses are paid. Legitimate expenses of a council shall consist of hall rent and stationery.

Delegate Fitzmaurice wanted the convention to provide for the establishment of the Irish republic by electing a president, vice president and parliament. Chairman Finerty disposed of his suggestion with the remark that the only place for the establishment of a government for Ireland was on Irish soil.

Declaration of Principles.

O'Neill Ryan was greeted with cheers when he stepped forward to read the platform proposed for the consideration of the convention. He at once proceeded to read, under the title of a "Declaration of Principles," the following:

The people of Ireland are a sovereign people. Ireland is by nature separated from every other country, and liberty is the birthright of her people. Ireland was known throughout Europe as a nation long before the dawn of Christianity, and was the home of civilization when England was still barbarous.

England's claims to authority in Ireland originated in force, and have been maintained by coercion and oppression. They have never given Ireland a right to rule. The title by conquest has never been perfected, inasmuch as the Irish people have continuously resisted England's power, and endeavored to destroy her unlawful supremacy.

Ireland is deprived of almost every civil right, which the American people most dearly cherish. Unexampled cruelty and brutal vindictiveness have been the distinguishing features of English rule in Ireland. England has destroyed Ireland's industries and ruined her commerce; she has placed upon her statute books laws making it a crime to educate an Irish child; she burned Ireland's schoolhouses and destroyed her churches, she has driven into exile, or left to perish in her dungeons, thousands of men whose only crime was love of Ireland. Every measure for the last century looking toward legislative independence of the Irish people has either suffered defeat in the commons or been arbitrarily rejected by the lords.

England has violated every treaty and broken every pledge, and with almost every year of the century she has imposed upon Ireland brutal laws of coercion, and one of the most drastic character is now upon her statute books.

To the pleas of the people for justice and their prayers for mercy, England has responded with the scourge and the scaffold, and yet today, Ireland enthralled, but enslaved, crushed, but not conquered, is in spirit a nation.

It has become evident after many years of earnest endeavor to obtain a measure of independence from the English government by peaceful agitation that appeals to reason for justice is futile. It is left, therefore, for the men of the Irish race to proclaim again the truth recorded by all history, that the liberties of a people and the independence of a nation cannot be achieved by debate, but must be won upon the field of battle, and we declare our belief that the men of Ireland, who are being driven into exile, or into the graves of serfs in their native land by English misgovernment, are entitled by the laws of God and man to use every means in their power to drive from their country the tyrant and usurper, and we believe that Ireland has the right to seize England's difficulty her opportunity, and to use all possible means to create that difficulty.

In view of these facts, the members of this convention appeal with confidence to their American fellow citizens and all lovers of liberty to co-operate with them in aiding the people of Ireland in the achievement of the same measure of liberty enjoyed in these United States.

Unfortunates Remembered.

Distinct from the "declaration of principles," Chairman Ryan also submitted, on behalf of the resolution, three other resolutions as follows:

Resolved, that we earnestly protest against the continued incarceration in English prisons of Irish patriots; that we consider it inhuman and against the policy of civilized nations to keep in prison men who have acted only in the interest of their country and human liberty, and that the release of these men is imperatively demanded, not only by the Irish people, but by civilization.

Resolved, that this convention expresses the hope that the people of Cuba, who are struggling for political independence and the establishment of a republic, will be successful, and that we extend to them our heartfelt sympathy.

Resolved, that this convention, recognizing the importance to the Irish nation of preserving the language, literature and music of the people, commends the work now being done by the Gaelic league and the National Literary society in Ireland, and by the Gaelic societies of this country, and earnestly trust our people will give them hearty co-operation and generous support.

The "declaration of principles" was unanimously adopted by the convention, as submitted by the committee. The three resolutions were each read separately, and were warmly endorsed by the convention in a similar manner. Then the following was submitted and met with instant approval:

Resolved, that this convention recommends the formation of military companies wherever practicable, in order to foster and preserve the military spirit of the Irish race and to be prepared for action in the hour of England's difficulty.

Lyman Made President.

The election of officers for the newly-created Irish National Alliance was declared in order, and resulted as follows:

President, William Lyman, New York; vice president, O'Neill Ryan, St. Louis; treasurer, P. V. Fitzpatrick, Chicago; executive council, J. J. O'Donovan, Lowell, Mass.; Chris Gallagher, Minnesota; Martin Kelly, Tennessee; Captain Magann, Wisconsin; J. Sheehy, San Francisco; J. M. Kennedy, Montana; T. J. Dunbar, Ohio; T. H. Greevey, Pennsylvania, and James Lawler, Texas.

Mr. Ryan was the only one of the newly-elected officers who made any extended remarks, the others merely thanking the convention for the honors conferred, and promising the faithful discharge of the duties imposed.

J. J. Keating explained that in the future they would drop the term, "Brothers," which they had formerly used in addressing each other, and adopt the words, "Comrades of the Irish Republican Army." Delegate Father O'Mahoney interrupted at this point, and, seemingly, without waiting to hear what the priest had to say, Mr. Keating retorted, somewhat hotly: "For the first time, the cloth of God's minister has interfered with the cause of Ireland."

The convention closed with the singing of a new Irish song, called "God bless Ireland," after which the delegates arose and sang "America" and "God Save Ireland."

Chairman Finerty read extracts from several of the English papers on the convention. He characterized them as "good average samples of English blackguardism and brutality," and wound up by saying the English would soon have an opportunity to see whether the new movement meant anything.

There was a conference during the afternoon of the delegates who have had experience in military affairs. This meeting was held behind closed doors, and all inquiries as to the methods of organizing the military arm of the Alliance were met by the response that all details would be left to the executive officers and executive council.

ANOTHER CONTEST LIKELY.

Valkyrie May Race With Defender After the Distant Shores Trial.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—It is known that Lord Dunraven still believes that the Valkyrie is faster than the Defender, and that with a clear course he thinks that he could win in the kind of weather which prevailed on the last two days of this year's race. He wants to race against the Defender again, and for the America's cup, and probably will be accommodated.

It would be impossible for the New York Yacht club to race against the Valkyrie for the cup until the race with the Distant Shore has been decided, as Mr. Rose and the Royal Victoria Yacht club have a prior right under the terms of the deed of gift. But there is no reason why the Valkyrie should not sail for the cup after the Distant Shore has been disposed of, and this is what has been decided upon as far as can be done without the sanction of the Royal Yacht squadron and the New York Yacht club.

The question of the course has also been satisfactorily arranged, and there will be no trouble. Dunraven is willing to accept the statement of the committee that they will do their best to keep the Sandy Hook course clear, and now believes that they will have little trouble in so doing.

The Defender will be chosen to race against the Distant Shore and the Valkyrie without doubt.

A Postponement.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The ram Katahdin was recently docked at Boston, and it was found that the propeller blades were badly bent. This is supposed to have been caused by picking up a log while running, and it is believed to explain the lack of speed of the vessel. New propeller blades will be cast and fitted. It is estimated that the official trial of the Katahdin will have to be postponed for two weeks.

Probable Case of Insanity.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27.—Martin Carter, under arrest at Portsmouth, N. H., who asserts that he murdered a young woman named Annie Jones in this city, Aug. 17, must be insane. No such murder occurred here, but a man named Carter, who lives here, has been afflicted with a hallucination that he killed a woman. The man has been in asylum in this state. It is thought the man arrested at Portsmouth is this man.

Criminally Careless.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The death of Robert W. Inman, through the sinking of his yacht on Aug. 28, after a collision with the steamboat Persens, was the subject of an inquest last night. The jury found that Captain Hulse and Pilot Allen of the steamboat were guilty of criminal carelessness, and warrants were issued for their arrest.

But Fifty-Three Above the Limit.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The president's order, prescribing the examination of consuls who receive a compensation of more than $1000 and less than $2500, will apply to 126 offices, of which 125 are salaried and 21 fee offices. Above the limit of the order are 53 offices and below it are 71 offices.

Powers Will Discuss Armenian Question.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—It is stated that, in consequence of the reported imminent withdrawal of the powers from further action in regard to demanding reforms in Armenia, it has been decided to hold a conference at an early day in Paris to discuss the Armenian question.

Bishop as Arbitrator.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Bishop Henry C. Potter will act as arbitrator between the derrickmen, who went on strike 10 days ago, and the contractors, and the existing differences will probably be amicably adjusted.

Appreciates Good Work.

BERLIN, Sept. 27.—Emperor William has addressed a cabinet order to General Winterfeld, congratulating the Guard upon the high standard of efficiency that they showed at the maneuvers.

Field Backed Down.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 27.—The race between the half-rater yachts, Spruce IV, owned by J. A. Brand of the Minima Yacht club of England, and Ethelwynn, Captain C. J. Field of Indian Harbor Yacht club, which was sailed yesterday, ended in a very unsatisfactory manner. After sailing one round of six miles, Mr. Field decided that he would not continue the journey, because the wind was so strong and the sea so choppy that the conditions were not those in which a half-rater should sail. Nevertheless, Spruce covered the entire distance, despite wind and sea. When Ethelwynn quit she was 8m. 58s. behind. The action of Mr. Field, in giving up, occasioned many uncomplimentary remarks. The race, which was over a course 12 miles in all, was the third of the series, each boat having won one before.

Concerning Inspection.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Solicitor of the Treasury Reeves has rendered an opinion that passengers on board ship bound to a port of the United States from a foreign country, and intending to disembark at an intermediate foreign port, are liable to be inspected by United States inspectors at the port of embarkation, and that the regulations of marine hospital service, requiring such inspection, is in accordance with the provisions of the statute.

Cholera in Hawaii.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 27.—Steamer Alameda, from Australia and New Zealand, by way of the Hawaiian Islands, lay outside of Honolulu to land the mails, but she took no passengers aboard, and refused to take any mail for San Francisco. The boat which put off from the islands reported that there were 26 cases of cholera on land. Forty deaths have already resulted from the disease.

A GOOD WINDUP.

Orioles Take the Last Game of the Season on the Home Grounds.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 26.—The last game of the '95 championship series on the home grounds went to last year's pennant winners by the decisive score of 10 to 1. But five and a half innings were played when darkness and a few drops of rain caused Umpire Keefe to call the game.

"NOT A CANDIDATE."

Mr. Haile's Brief Statement Concerning the Gubernatorial Nomination.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 27.—William H. Haile, who has been prominently mentioned as a Republican candidate for governor of Massachusetts, says: "So far as I am personally concerned I do not consider that it is necessary for me to say anything. I have not been in any way a candidate this year, and have so stated at all times."

Mr. Haile positively refused to answer any questions regarding the gubernatorial situation. He flatly declined to state whether he would stand for nomination in the convention. "My statement," he said, "is all I have to say about the matter. I think it covers everything."

Williams Has the Call.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 27.—Democratic caucuses were held in Springfield, Chicopee and a few other western Massachusetts places last night. They were invariably very slimly attended and the delegates sent unpledged, although no other name than George E. Williams was mentioned for governor. Not even a contest in any place for any offices varied the monotony.

Pine Tree Christian Temperance Folks.

HOULTON, Me., Sept. 27.—The 24th annual convention of the Maine Women's Christian Temperance union opened here yesterday, and was addressed by President Stevens of Biddeford. Last night was welcome night, and several addresses of welcome were given. The remainder of the evening was occupied by two-minute speeches by state superintendents.

Watching Maine Fisheries.

CAMDEN, Me., Sept. 27.—T. H. Wentworth and H. O. Stanley, state commissioners of inland fisheries, made arrangements here yesterday to stock Lake Megunticook with 5000 salmon and 5000 trout. They also close Goose river and tributaries for three years, to protect trout and black bass in that stream and Homer pond, from which it flows.

Suit For $35,000.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 27.—The receiver of the Alliance Life Insurance company brought suit yesterday in the United States court against the directors of the Maine and New Brunswick Life Insurance company to recover $35,000, which it is claimed is owed the stockholders of the Alliance company by the Maine and New Brunswick company.

Will Sell Out.

NASHUA, N. H., Sept. 27.—The stockholders of the Nashua and Jackson companies yesterday voted to sell their right in the Nashua river water to the Metropolitan water commission of Massachusetts, for use of drinking water for Boston. The company owns about 10 miles of the river banks.

Strike Threatened.

LYNN, Mass., Sept. 27.—The iron and brass moulders last night voted to present a demand to the proprietors of foundries for a minimum wage scale of $2.50 per day, the abolition of the piece system and the recognition of the working card. Unless the demands are granted a strike will be declared.

Domestic Discord.

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—Judge Forbes of Worcester has ordered an attachment for $30,000 to issue against the estate of Dana L. Fuller of Fitchburg, in behalf of his wife, Josephine E. M. Fuller. Mrs. Fuller filed a petition for separate maintenance at the registery of probate yesterday. Mrs. Fuller alleges that the respondent, without any cause upon her part and against her will, left her, and, although he has contributed to her support up to the present, he has refused her his society.

Moderator Reynolds.

WESTBROOK, Me., Sept. 27.—The conference of the Congregational churches of Maine elected Rev. G. W. Reynolds of Gorham moderator for the ensuing year, after which Rev. Dr. Merrill introduced resolutions calling upon the local authorities all over the state to enforce the Sunday laws.

NEW BOOKS.

WASHINGTON OR THE REVOLUTION—A Drama Founded upon the Historic Events of the War for American Independence, by Ethan Allen. F. Tennyson Neely, Chicago.

Part first of this thoroughly interesting work is a presentation of the events of the famous days from the Boston massacre to the surrender of Burgoyne. It is a great book with a great subject, and the tale is so powerfully told that it is wise to begin the volume only when there is plenty of time ahead to finish it speedily. The dramatic form of narration gives a life to the story of the revolution that enchants the reader. One lays it down with the conviction that here is a volume that will interest generations to come, and be a permanent attraction in any household. As a reader for schools it is all that could be required, and we imagine the dullest of scholars coming out of himself with a burst of patriotism as he goes with Washington and Putnam, Allen, Stark, Nathan Hale and other heroes, through the early struggles that brought us our freedom. The book is scrupulously true to history, and written in a style that cannot be too highly praised for its fine, clear English. The Rev. R. Heber Newton speaks of the work as follows: "It shows wide reading in the authorities of the period, and a well digested conception of the history and personages. The idea of the 'Drama' is admirable. Characterative in it and move like human beings and not like the manikins of 'history.' The arrangements of parts secures a wide variety of scenes and action, while threading the story clearly. I found the old tale growing fresh to me, and well known heroes looming up like veritable men. I am particularly struck with the command of fine and racy old English displayed, betokening deep and habitual draughts from 'the wells of English undefiled.' I hope that the publishers will do their part to secure for this a wide reading. Then it will help on that renaissance of Americanism which we need so greatly."

From London comes a "Tourist Guide to the Continent," edited by Mr. Percy Lindley, and published by authority of the Great Eastern Railway Company. It is fully illustrated and furnished with maps, and will prove a handy little volume for an intending traveler, as it contains more of historical and legendary interest than do the ordinary guide books giving only the necessities of traveling information and none of the luxuries. It is also a good book of reference for any household. Chapters upon Holland, including the interesting districts of Amsterdam and the Zuyder Zee, and of Belgium, including Antwerp, Brussels, Waterloo, the towns of Old Flanders, and the "Cockpit of Europe," are of special interest to Americans. The new Dutch port, called the Hook of Holland, is within a few minutes, by rail, of the port of Delftshaven, so full of memories of our Pilgrim ancestors.

DOTY DONTCARE—A Story of The Garden of the Antilles, by Mary F. Foster. Estes & Lauriat, Boston.

If it is true that there is much in a name this name is a mistake, for it holds no indication of what is a novel story of West Indian life. The fertile island that Columbus found called Ay-Ay, and rechristened Santa Cruz, is the scene, and the tropical richness of vegetation and the character of its inhabitants give the author an opportunity for something new in the way of a book. The customs, dialects, and curious superstitions of the people are described by one who has lived for years on the island, and has made a work valuable for its information as well as for its charm of romance in a strange land.

WHEN LOVE IS DONE, by Ethel Davis. Estes & Lauriat, Boston.

The author's name is a new one in the field of novels, but the book holds a promise of good work that may make the writer more familiar in the future. It is a study of New England village life, and its different phases of restlessness and content. Its new women are unbalanced by a development which has not been of the all round type, and lack the serenity of the early women and the self restraint of the later editions. There is some exceedingly good character study, true enough to life if one puts Capeport a little farther away from Boston, and Casper Shea and Herr Schmidt in a lower grade of city society than the author represents them as condescending from. But these are small matters. The book contains much that comes from the soul, like Mary's cry to the man who is to marry her sister—"Make her life different from the one we know best !"—the appeal from the cramped life of the little country place from one on whom a great depression of hopelessness has settled. There is much that is morbid in the book, but any one who knows New England country life cannot find fault with this.

MR. SCHERMERHORN'S NEW YACHT.

Steam yacht Free Lance, built by Nixon for Mr. F. Augustus Schermerhorn, had a very successful trial in Long Island sound yesterday. The engine was run with open throttle during the entire test, and greatly exceeded the guaranteed horse-power, the boat making nineteen miles and a maximum of more than twenty miles. The revolutions averaged about 210, and the steam pressure 200 pounds. Hand-picked coal was not used, and a green crew ran her, so even better results are looked for in the future.

THE JEWISH DAY OF ATONEMENT.

The most important of the observances in the Jewish calendar, "Yom Kippur," or the day of atonement, begins this evening and will be of special solemnity, as it comes this year on the Jewish Sabbath. This is the last of the ten days of penitence which were inaugurated on the Rosh Hashonoh, or the new year. With the orthodox Hebrew the most rigorous fasting is observed for twenty-four hours. Services will be held in the synagogues, beginning at dusk and continuing until 9 o'clock in the evening, being resumed in the morning and continued without interruption until twilight. During the twenty-four hours all adults professing the Hebrew faith will abstain from their usual vocations and from the use of food or drink of any kind. It is the annual fast day, and is observed by the Jewish people throughout the world.

IDENTIFIED AS JAMES HOMMEL.

Yesterday Mr. George J. Boose called at Cottrell's undertaking rooms and identified the body of the suicide found near Water Works road as that of James Hommel, a native of Germany, aged about sixty-three years, and a butler by occupation. Mr. Boose says that three or four years ago Hommel attempted to commit suicide by jumping from steamer Conanicut, near Jamestown. He was pulled out, and taken in charge by Mr. Boose, who secured him employment with Mrs. Pratt, who banked his savings and at the end of a year, when she left for Europe, secured for him a place. Mr. Boose does not know of his history, before or since, except what the deceased told him, that he had no relatives here. Today James Williams, who keeps a boarding-house at 12 Long wharf, identified the remains as those of a man who had lodged at his place for the past three weeks, but who had not been seen since Thursday morning. A trunk and bag are in the room occupied by the deceased, and everything about the place is neat and clean. The remains will be interred by the city.

FOUND DEAD AT HER HOME.

This morning a number of the neighbors of Mrs. Mary Brewer, who resided alone in a little house in the rear of 72 West Broadway, instituted a search for her, none of them having seen her since Tuesday last. Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Lawton, the owner of the building, with several boys, tried to obtain entrance into the house, but receiving no response to their knockings Mrs. Lawton had one of the boys pry open a window. A view of the interior was then obtained, and the body of the missing woman was seen lying on the floor. The authorities were at once notified, and after viewing the premises Medical Examiner Ecroyd decided that death resulted from natural causes.

The position of the body and the furnishings of the room indicated that the deceased had been sitting on a chair when she was seized by a fit or an attack of heart disease, causing her to fall forward and strike the right side of her chin against a floor barrel, making a bruise. The body then fell to the floor, the chair on which the woman had been sitting following the body and partially covering it. From the condition of the corpse, death is supposed to have occurred very shortly after the deceased was last seen, Tuesday afternoon. The door was locked on the inside, all the windows were fastened and the curtains drawn, so that nothing was known about the condition of the interior until this morning.

The deceased, who lived a very secluded life and seemed to care for no visitors, was about fifty-six years of age. She has a sister, Mrs. Michael Killian, but no other near relatives in the city.

POLICE NOTES.

Edward Sullivan, Thomas F. Feeney and Peter Matthews have each been fined $2 and costs for drunkenness, and all three being unable to pay have been committed.

William Brown took a boat not his property recently, used and damaged it. He was arrested. Later the case against him was withdrawn, with the understanding that Brown pay all damages.

"For years," says Captain C. Mueller, "I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than anything else in the medicine chest, to regulate my bowels, and those of the ship's crew. These pills are not severe in their action, but do their work thoroughly."

COMPENSATION.

The spreading hills with gentle slope
Lie broadly to the rising sun,
Whose cheering beams of early hope
Caress them softly, one by one,
While in the hollows, gray and low,
Thick mists and shadows heavy lie,
For all the morning's ruddy glow
Has coldly passed the valleys by.

So life-long laugh, while valleys weep
Away the hours of early days,
With sunshine resting on the steep,
And darkness shrouding lowly ways,
Till evening hastes and shadows sleep
On every eastward-lying hill.
Then down the slopes the sunbeams creep,
And raptured vales with gladness thrill.

To lonely lives, which sadly missed
The early sun's inspiring beams;
To valleys morning shadows kissed,
But wakened not from haggard dreams—
To these at eve shall come a glow
Of sunshine o'er the happy plain;
A sweeter joy than mornings know—
The touch of gladness after pain.

It has been announced from high medical authority that kleptomania is more prevalent among women than the other sex. The experts declare it a disease which is a sign of hysteria and physical weakness. How the medical world is taking the responsibilities of the moral world! After a while people will not see the absurdity of the negro's plea in a recent arraignment in a Virginia court for chicken stealing. The negro had been listening to a long explanation from the overseer about hypnotism, kleptomania and the like. So his answer was: "De chicken done hypnotize me, Jedge, and then kleptomania came on."—[Ex.

FEW KNOW ABOUT THE SHAKERS OF MOUNT LEBANON.

We may not accept their peculiar religious views. We cannot enter into the spirit of their sacrifices, and therefore we do not study their habits of life.

It is not necessary to believe as they do, but we can and do respect their sincerity of purpose and the honor and uprightness which mark all their business dealings.

In one particular the Shakers excel all other men or classes of men. This is in the cultivation of medicinal herbs and plants. They have made it a study for more than one hundred years. They are also expert in extracting from them their characteristic essences and medicinal virtues. This is their peculiar industry. Their lives have been devoted to it. By it they are supported. They excel in this branch as do the monks of the order of St. Benedict with their famous liqueur called "Benedictine."

Now this life-long study on the part of the Shakers has not been in vain. They have accomplished much good. Their medicinal extracts and cordials are known throughout the world.

The Shaker Digestive Cordial is probably the most useful medicine ever given to the public. It is not a cure for all diseases; it does not pretend to be; but one disease it will cure, and that is indigestion. It is not pretended that it will cure anything else, and a sufferer has not long to wait to see the result. The effect is immediate. Almost the first dose will give relief, and, if continued, a permanent cure will follow.

Every druggist has been sent a supply of our handsome Donkey Puzzle Books, and a copy may be had for the asking. It tells all about the Cordial as well as Laxol, the new castor oil.

Try a twenty-five cent bottle of Digestive Cordial and see what it will do for you.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1895.

EMPLOYERS AND EMPLOYES.

The controversies between labor and capital are not yet over, but the parties are coming by degrees to find out the limitations by which they are bound. A decision just rendered in one of the Ohio courts puts what is known as blacklisting on the part of employers under the ban, just as other decisions have declared against boycotting on the part of employes. The case before the court was a suit of William Addison against the Lake Shore Railroad Company. "Addison was a conductor in the employ of that company, and at the same time a member of a labor union which joined in a strike some time in 1894. The union made Addison a member of its grievance committee, in which capacity he conferred with the officers of the Lake Shore, company and became known to them as one of the leaders of the strike. When the strike was over he was refused reinstatement in his old place, and when he applied for employment on other railroads he found that he had been blacklisted, and that he could not get work on any railroad in the country. Consequently he was obliged to look elsewhere for his support, and found a place as policeman at about half his former salary as conductor. He sued the Lake Shore company for damages growing out of this blacklisting, and the company demurred to his suit that it had not exceeded its right of self-protection in describing Addison as an undesirable employe for a railroad company, and that it was therefore not responsible for his failure to find employment at his old business."

In rendering his decision Judge Platt of the United States circuit court held that the company was in the wrong, and that the right of the employe to obtain work cannot be taken from him any more than can the right of the employer to hire laborers. This right to sell his labor is the one thing which stands between the workingman and starvation, and it is against public policy for a number of employers to combine to prevent the exercise of this right by any man or body of men. If a man leaves, or is discharged from the employment of any person or corporation, it is not for his former employer to say whether or not he is a fit person to be employed by another party; that is a matter to be determined by the new employer for himself.

This seems just and proper, for no matter what his offense he should not be pursued through life with a purpose of depriving him of the opportunity of earning a livelihood. It is well said that the blacklist is the employers' boycott, and is as indefensible on any grounds as the strikers' attempt to keep "scabs" from seeking work at a shop whose doors are closed by a strike. The railroad companies have suffered from and complained of this practice of strikers, and have asked and received the aid of the courts against it, and are therefore stopped from complaining when the same doctrine is applied to their blacklist. All that the courts have done in either instance is to affirm the necessity that the right of freedom of contract shall be maintained between employer and workingman, against aggression from either side, and certainly this is a proper function of the judiciary.

The lesson to be learned from all this is that the labor unions must cease their interference to prevent employers from hiring whom they please, and that the employers must break up their system of blacklisting to prevent laboring men from getting work wherever opportunity affords, which is sound doctrine throughout.

OUR GREAT LAKES.

There has been much speculation as to what might be the effect upon the lakes were the proposed Chicago ship canal to be constructed so as to provide a new outflow with an outlet three or four feet lower than the present water level. It is a problem never to be determined except by actual trial. The lakes now have regular periods of rise and fall, such as no scientists have been able to explain, and the mystery would be deepened by such a change as is contemplated.

This question of the water level of the great lakes is a curious study. The St. Louis Globe furnishes some suggestive figures. "Last week six inches of rain fell over Superior, Michigan and Huron, whose combined area is 77,470 square miles. These showers added to the three lakes 1,079,630,150,000 cubic feet of water, without counting the water received by drainage or tributary streams. It would take the canal under construction in Illinois seven years to carry off this rainfall alone, at the rate of 300,000 cubic feet a minute. The fact should not be forgotten that the lakes are fresh-water oceans with enormous powers of storage, and it is not certain that a dozen ordinary canals would pull upon them perceptibly."

The question is one of practical importance to the cities and towns bordering on these inland seas, as if the level should be reduced to that of the Mississippi river, with which it is proposed to make connection, not a few of the harbors now of importance would be seriously affected. And yet the canal is sure to be built, and probably others, so that the great city of the West will have a waterway for the largest ships, both to the Gulf of Mexico and to the Atlantic.

NOT A CANDIDATE.

Ex-Lieutenant Governor Haile announces that he has not been at any time, and is not now, a candidate for governor of Massachusetts. His name has been kept before the people for some time, and not a word could be drawn from him either affirming or denying it, or at any rate with his consent or approval. Just now that the delegates to the convention have so far been chosen as to make it certain that Governor Greenhalge will be renominated, it does not require much of a figure of self-sacrifice to decline the honor of being a candidate against him. Congressman Morse evidently takes a similar view of the situation, and so Mr. Greenhalge has a pretty clear field.

Almost every one appears satisfied with the result of the voting on the constitutional amendment. We have seldom known a defeat with so few mourners, and yet two thirds of the people believe in biennial elections, biennial governors and biennial sessions of the legislature. But, as we have already intimated, it is not likely that a constitutional convention will be held or important changes effected in the present temper of the people.

The village of Blackstone, Mass., sits in darkness in these days, because it is not willing to pay the price of lighting up. The controversy between the town and the illuminating company began some six months ago and now, to have no further trouble, the plant, which is owned by private capital, is to be taken up and removed.

Rochester, N. Y., is to give a good test to voting machines. It has decided to buy seventy, which will cost $25,000, but save the city in election salaries $6,000 a year. Rochester's experiment will be watched with interest, for the present method of voting is as expensive as it is open to fraud of many kinds.

An anti-Tammany coalition will now be formed in New York. Senator Hill and his co-laborers carried matters a little too far for harmony's sake, in refusing recognition to other Democrats than those in affiliation with a single organization. It probably means the defeat of the party once more.

The Spaniards are threatening to get even with this country when the Cuban war is over. They say they will have two hundred thousand soldiers on the island and plenty of ships in the vicinity to come over some fine morning and give Uncle Sam a sound thrashing. And perhaps they will do it!

The Epworth League convention held this week in Providence made choice of Rev. E. F. Studley of Wickford as president for the ensuing year. It was given out during the session that the chapter connected with the Broadway church in Providence numbers 1,000, which affords some idea of the rapid growth of this young organization.

The Baltimore Sun, a leading Democratic paper, is making a determined fight against the Democratic organization in Maryland. It declares that "Gormanism is a cancer in the body politic of Maryland," and it evidently means to cut it out. Such a process is pretty certain to kill or cure.

The Brockton Times says: "Rhode Island sticks to annual elections. The trouble seems to have been that too many other issues were mixed up with the biennial amendment, and that the politicians who habitually look for pie want it annually." That is about the size of it.

It is given out that the University of Pennsylvania opens this year with one thousand Freshmen in its classes. So far as heard from, all the other colleges continue to increase in numbers and general prosperity.

The Democrats of New Jersey did well in nominating Chancellor McGill for governor. He is not only an able man but as upright and honorable in politics as in any other business.

Times have changed. China is beginning to talk "sassy" to England, and Japan to Russia. Neither of them would have done so a few years ago.

The rain last night was welcome, but it will not go far toward relieving the water famine, which extends over a large section of the country.

Governor Culberson of Texas is waging a big fight in behalf of decency and good order, and deserves to win.

Some people will have it that the Democratic party in New York is not only split but drawn and quartered.

THE AUTHOR OF "THE MANXMAN."

Hall Caine, the Manxman, whose literary genius is acknowledged wherever the English language is read, arrived in New York Wednesday as a passenger by White Star steamship Teutonic. This is his first visit to America, and he comes to bring about an understanding between Canada and the mother country relative to Canadian copyright. He will first go to Riverdale, Mr. W. W. Appleton's country place, for a few days, then to Buzzard's Bay and then to Montreal, Quebec and Ottawa.

In appearance and in manner Hall Caine is the sort of person that his readers have imagined him to be. "A bundle of nerves, a frail creature, and a bag of weakness," he has described himself to be. The description may or may not be wholly accurate. Frail he looks to be, and dark eyes that burn and look beyond the object to which they are directed, muscles that twitch, and a restless manner, show a high-strung, if not a nervous, temperament. His manner is as gentle as that of a girl and his voice is well modulated and sweetly toned. Mr. Caine is accompanied by his wife and their young son, Ralph.

To a New York Times reporter he spoke of his early years as an architect and told how he had lectured in those old days on poetry, Shakespeare, and what not, and how one of his lectures had attracted the attention of Rossetti, and how he had been invited to visit the artist. "I found him," said the novelist, "in Chelsea, in a desolate barn of a house, and during my stay we became great friends. Soon afterward my health failed, and I took a cottage in Cumberland. Rossetti came to me, and we were together until he died in my arms. From my acquaintance with Rossetti dates the beginning of my career in London. He introduced me to a large circle of literary people. That was advantageous in one way and disadvantageous in another, as it identified me in the minds of the people with the asceticism of Rossetti—something entirely apart from me."

Mr. Caine spoke interestingly and with great modesty as to his method of work. "So far as I have a method," he explained, "it is this. I do not write with my pen in hand. By that I mean that for even six months I may do nothing with my pen, and yet be at work upon a book. The plan of the work—the general plan—is first outlined. After that period comes the time when I must read up on the subject that I am to write about. Then comes the molding and kneading process, in which is winnowed out what I do not want, and the remaining material framed into the shape I want it. Thus, piece by piece, the work is done."

Concerning the recent production of "The Manxman" here, Mr. Caine said he had understood that the critics had not spoken over favorably of it. The version presented by Mr. Barrett, he said, was one wholly different from that contained in the book. Mr. Caine said he had with him a new version—one prepared by himself and a London collaborator—which carried out the motive of the book. The play is to be produced in London.

Mr. Caine was asked what American author he most admired or read. With a winning smile he said that one of the American authors had made such frank criticism of the English writers that he had little disposition to follow in his footsteps. Then he begged to be excused from saying anything on the subject.

THE LAST OF A NOTED FAMILY.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Hall, widow of Colonel Edward Fitch Hall, who died at her residence in West Medford Tuesday, in her eighty-ninth year, was the last survivor of the fifteen children of Major Joseph Hardy Peirce of Boston. Thirteen of these children of his first wife, Frances Temple, daughter of Joseph Cordis of Charlestown, reached adult years, ten of them married, nine of them left children and six of them lived to advanced life. The two children of Major Peirce's second wife, Abby, daughter of William T. Robinson of Newport, R. I., died young. This large family of children were remarkable for their strong constitution, their personal beauty, and their grace and charm of manner. Of the six sisters it would have been difficult to select one as the most beautiful, they were so varied in their types. All possessed a grace of movement which seemed peculiar to them. Mrs. Hall was certainly very beautiful. She was rather petite, with a classic face of great mobility of expression. Mrs. Gray had been called by Joseph Bonaparte the handsomest woman he had ever seen in America. Mrs. West was a charming blonde, while Mrs. Holland was a striking brunette with much color. Mr. Agg wrote of them in his famous poem, "Went You with the World Tonight," commemorating Mrs. Adams's ball held at Washington on the eighth of January, 1824, and which they attended, as follows:

"The Peirces with their heavenly faces,
And eyes like suns that dazzle thro'."

While Thomas Bulfinch, on their departure for home in schooner Zephyr, after their season in Washington, wrote the following poem:

"Brave vessel! know'st thou what a freight
Thy gallant thirteen stout shall own?
The fairest Venetian barque of state
Ne'er bore a freight so rich and rare.

Fair Bella, with the dimpled cheek,
And Marcia, with the pensive brow,
And Laura, with the eyes that speak
Ere from her lips the accent flows.

And Ann, the conqueror of hearts,
With charms at will—a very fairy;
And then arrayed in Beauty's darts,
Hebe—the fairest call her Mary."

AMERICAN POSTER DESIGNS.

Starting from a lower plane than French art ever knew, our designers have reached a level of artistic equality with all except the acknowledged masters in this curious line of work in France or elsewhere; and there are evidences of the natural, healthy, unaffected growth of certain tendencies that must lead to the formation of a distinctively American school.

Let me take passing note of the productions of the American poster makers of the present day as we see them. It needs but a glance at the work of today to show that boldness of design and variety and novelty in technical execution have taken the place of the timorous crudity of earlier years. Unquestionably, the fact that most of our artists are still at school is quite apparent. We can forgive this when we see the American artist consciously or unconsciously, trying to get rid of the little touch of cynical vulgarity that deforms too much of what is otherwise worthy in French art, and to keep for himself the lucid clearness and unsought force and directness of its inspiration. But imitation is not so readily forgiven when it takes the form of even a conscientious Americanization of a brutal English parody on the eccentricities of mediæval Florentine art; and it is pleasant to see that the artist who is on our side of the water has most conspicuously shown cleverness in this re-adaptation is growing away from the British model and developing its own characteristic powers, which point him as naturally to lines of beauty as the qualities of the foreigner urge him to a morbid delight in the contortions of ugliness.—[H. C. Bunner, in the October Scribner's.

SAN FRANCISCO'S WATER SUPPLY.

More fortunate than most large cities is San Francisco in its opportunities to secure abundant water of excellent quality. Recent experiments show almost conclusively that the city is built directly over a vast reservoir, which only needs to be tapped by a system of artesian wells to furnish the entire population with pure water. It has been supposed that this underground supply came from the ocean by process of filtration through the sand, and that by this course it had been delivered from its saline properties and made fit for drinking, but the recent investigations show that this cannot be the case. Artesian water is supplied at heights considerably above the level of the sea, and it has become apparent that the source of the supply is in the Sierra mountains, in the regions of springs and snows where no contamination is possible.

But the fact that San Francisco is located directly over the reservoir of this mountain water does not entirely solve the problem of making the supply available. Mayor Sutro, after examining the plans made by city engineers, expresses this opinion: "There is certainly an inexhaustible supply of water beneath San Francisco, but I question whether it could be more advantageously used than the waters of the Sierras, which would not need pumping, but would come to us by the mere force of gravity. To drive the number of wells necessary to supply sixty million gallons per day, put in the proper pumping plant, and maintain the whole, would, in my opinion, cost more than to establish a pipe system to some one of the vast reservoirs in the Sierras where an inexhaustible supply of pure water is waiting. However, either supply would be far better and cheaper under municipal ownership than the present supply." The San Francisco Union for Practical Progress is concerned in the project for securing a new water supply for the city, and it is expected that plans will be submitted and the question placed before the voters this fall.

A cable message has been received at the Navy Department, announcing the departure of gunboat Castine from Cape Town, South Africa, yesterday, for St. Helena, on her way to Montevideo, a cruise of about six thousand miles. The Castine has recently visited Madagascar, Mozambique and other places on the east coast of Africa. The Newark, flagship of Admiral Norton, commanding the South Atlantic squadron, is now in dock at Cape Town, and is available for service in Madagascar and vicinity in case the presence of an American warship is needed in those waters. Commander Perry, commanding the Castine, rendered good service on the east coast of Africa. He spent some time at Mozambique looking into the case of United States Consul Hollis, who got into trouble through shooting a native whom he caught in his house under suspicious circumstances. At Madagascar Commander Perry stirred up the French officials by persisting in collecting important information in regard to the case of ex-Consul Waller, which he has since placed at the disposal of the State Department. Incidentally the naval commander had a little incident of his own, growing out of his refusal to salute the French flag, and thereby recognize the French protectorate over Madagascar.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27, 8 A. M.—For New England—Fair; cooler; northwesterly winds.

FOR BOSTON AND VICINITY.

BOSTON, Sept. 27, 8 A. M.—For Boston and vicinity until Saturday night—Fair; cooler; west to northwest winds.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS.

The feature of the weather is the cool wave which developed yesterday in the Northwest and now covers the region from the Dakotas south to Missouri and east to Lake Erie, attended by freezing temperature in the upper valleys. It will continue its eastward movement and be felt here in modified form tonight and tomorrow. Generally fair weather prevails throughout the country, but some cloudiness remains in the north Atlantic states from last night's disturbance. Another depression in the Northwest is located in the far Northwest, accompanied by showers and a decided rise in the temperature. In the New England states the rainfall was heaviest in eastern Maine, nearly an inch being measured at Eastport. The morning temperature in the district is slightly above 60 degrees; winds mostly westerly.

PREPARING FOR THE PRESIDENT.

Making the White House Ready for Mr. Cleveland's Return.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Preparations for the return of the President and family are in active progress at the executive mansion. The carpets have been re laid, the furniture has been cleaned, polished and put in place, curtains are being hung, and in a few days everything will be in readiness for the re-occupation of the mansion for the winter. Indications point to an early return of the President's family, but none of the employes will admit that any date has been fixed. The renovation of the building has been quite extensive, and it is now in better condition than for several years.

OPENING THE IOWA CAMPAIGN.

Allison Touches upon Silver, the Tariff and Bond Issues.

MARSHALLTOWN, Iowa, Sept. 27.—Senator Allison was the principal speaker here yesterday at the opening of the Republican state campaign under the auspices of the Iowa Traveling Men's Republican Club. The Senator declared that both the old parties in Iowa are practically in accord on the monetary question. In this connection he said: "Concurrent action or international agreement may not be near at hand, but the sentiment for it in Europe and in the United States is increasing day by day. Without some agreement each nation will be on the single standard of gold or silver, with a wide separation between the value of the two metals in international exchange."

On the tariff and bond question he said: "A modification of the tariff on the lines of protection is hardly possible with President Cleveland in the White House and the Senate without any party in the majority. The sale of bonds to pay current expenses should only be resorted to in times of extreme pressure, and when done should be for short periods, in anticipation of revenue to be presently provided for. This issue of bonds for current expenditures is one of the greatest blunders of the last two years."

NOTABLE GATHERING OF NEGROES.

Colored Baptist Missionary and Educational Associations.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 27.—What is perhaps one of the most if not the most notable gathering of negroes ever held in America is in progress in the Friendship Baptist Church of this city. The entire negro population of the United States is represented by more than twelve hundred delegates. The occasion of the gathering is the colored Baptists' foreign convention. Three large associations are represented, the National Baptists, the Baptist foreign missions and the Baptist Educational Association, and it was this that was the feature of yesterday's session. The reports of the progress of education and missions were read, and proved very gratifying. So successful has been the work of the men and women who are engaged that many more will go on the same mission. The officers of the mission convention are all from the South.

Cuban Insurgents Defeated.

MADRID, Sept. 27.—The Imparcial's special despatch from Havana says: Colonel Canellas, with two hundred men, made an attack Wednesday upon a camp at Bayameso, held by one thousand rebels. After an hour's fighting the Spaniards carried the camp and the rebels fled, leaving many horses and a quantity of arms and provisions. They also left five of their number dead on the field. The Spaniards had four men wounded.

FRANKLIN, Mass., Sept. 27.—James Cullen, seventy four years of age, while walking on the railroad track, was struck by the engine of the Milford train. Three ribs were broken, a leg was fractured and one shoulder injured. He was taken to the hospital.

Armenian Church in Antioch Raided by Moslems.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—A despatch from the Bulgarian town of Varna, on the Black sea, to the St. James Gazette says letters have been received there from Antioch, Syria, saying that a mob composed of members of the Moslem populace raided an Armenian church and destroyed the altar. Ten Armenians were killed or wounded while resisting the attack of the Moslems.

Barn Blown Away by a Hurricane.

CENTRAL CITY, W. Va., Sept. 27.—A hurricane passed over Green Bottom, twenty miles south of here, yesterday afternoon, doing great damage to property. A barn belonging to Sheriff Jenkins was blown away, and of the nineteen men who were inside at the time, John Nance, Will Gondlesby, Tim Blake and Isador Clark were so seriously injured that their recovery is doubtful.

Fall River's Burglar Bound Over.

FALL RIVER, Sept. 27.—Joe Lambert, alias "Dutchy" Sullivan, was arraigned in court this morning, and held in $1,000 bonds for burglary at the house of ex-Mayor Jackson in this city. He pleaded hard for immediate trial, but his request was denied. His brother, Peter Lambert, has also been arrested, on a charge of receiving stolen goods. From information let drop by Joe, the police questioned his father, and found him in possession of two watches, which he said were sold to his son Peter by Joseph for $5. Peter was released on bail.

MURDER IN THE FIRST DEGREE.

Conviction of a Negro Who Blew up a Hungarian House.

WILKESBARRE, Penn., Sept. 27.—Nelson Miller, with two other colored men and two colored women charged with the murder of four Hungarians, was found guilty of murder in the first degree this morning. Millar and his assistants in October last, with the use of dynamite, blew up a Hungarian boarding-house on the mountain side a few miles from this city, with the object of robbing the victims, who, it is claimed, had considerable money about the place. Sixty persons were in the house at the time, and four of them were killed. Miller is the first of the defendants to be tried. The other four will also have separate trials.

One Dead and Another Fatally Wounded.

Foote and James Slabaugh were contestants for the same property. Foote shot and instantly killed James Slabaugh and Charlie Slabaugh cut Foote's head with an axe, inflicting a fatal wound. Charlie Slabaugh was jailed last night.

APPELLATE COURT.

The second day of the September session of the appellate court for Newport county opened this morning, with a full bench, consisting of Chief Justice Matteson and Justices Tillinghast and Douglas, present. The audience was small.

The equity matter of Grafton N. Millikin et ux. et al. vs. Island Savings Bank was heard, Nathan W. Littlefield of Providence appearing for plaintiffs and Colonel Sheffield for defendant. The bill seeks to compel the bank to receive a balance due it on a foreclosure sale under a mortgage upon a farm and improvements on Block Island, and to deliver a deed to plaintiffs. The property was mortgaged in 1878 by Luther Millikin to plaintiffs, Grafton N. and Everett J. Millikin, to secure a note for $3,800, and in June, 1888, the mortgage was assigned to the bank to secure a loan of $1,900. In 1893, interest not being paid, the bank foreclosed and sold the property for $3,350, it being purchased by complainants, Laura A. and Blanche A. Millikin, who paid ten per cent. down, and on the day appointed for the delivery of the deed tendered the bank the balance due on the loan of $1,900 and a release to the bank from Grafton N. and Everett J. Millikin of the balance over the bank's claim. The bank refused to accept the release and money, and insisted on the whole amount of the purchase money being paid down. It is sought to compel the bank to accept the release and money and give a deed of the property. No decision was given.

Another Tiverton mortgage case was next in order, George Horseman being plaintiff and Elizabeth Pemberton respondent. It had been up before, and the court had intimated that the only question was as to the amount due under the mortgage. Irving Champlin of Providence and Mr. Wood of Fall River were present for plaintiff. Colonel Sheffield desired to file a cross bill in behalf of defendant, who desired to redeem the mortgage. This was objected to. Colonel Sheffield said it was but a change in form, containing what was already in the plea in the case, and the court listened to the cross bill. The case had reference to the hall that belonged to a council of the American Order of Druids, which, it was claimed, de-materialized, leaving Elizabeth Pemberton sole surviving trustee. It was claimed that she furnished the money to buy the property, and by vote of the council and consent of the other trustees was put in possession of the real estate, a paper being given, which, through ignorance of the law, was not properly executed, after which another and "more formal paper" was given to George Horseman, a stranger in the premises, who took possession and drove out the tenants. The place was valued at about $500. The court did not allow this motion, and it appeared that the parties had no dispute as to the figures. It was claimed that in the hearing for an injunction, before Judge Stiness, defendant admitted that she never paid a cent out of her own pocket for the property. The balance due was today in court, and had previously been offered to her personally, and her counsel had been notified that it was waiting his order. The court decided for plaintiff, and later a decree was entered directing Elizabeth Pemberton to deliver a discharge of the mortgage and the note to plaintiff, and to pay costs.

Judge Baker presented the defense in the case of Noah Redford against the city, Mr. Ives presenting the other side later. The case was before the court at its last term, when the court sustained the demurrer of the defendant. The plaintiff has amended his bill, but defendant still maintains that no cause of action against the city is shown. The case is a re-appearance of the litigation growing out of the use of Bath road by the Newport Street Railway Company. The former suits against that corporation having failed, the city is now sued for damages to plaintiff's property on that thoroughfare. Plaintiff alleges that, notwithstanding the city's duty to keep this highway in repair and convenient for travelers, it had authorized and permitted the street railway to lay rails and turnouts in front of plaintiff's property, and cars were permitted to occupy and run on said rails and turnouts. Plaintiff farther complains that the rails are too light, and get out of alignment both vertically and horizontally; that the motors are too heavy; that there is "a loud and roaring noise" and "a rocking and swaying motion" of the cars, frightening horses; that the cars run rapidly and in great numbers, and stand on the turnouts obstructing travel, and that the street is practically reduced to a width of nine feet. He says that persons are unable to come to his property with horses and carriages, and that the value of his property is greatly decreased. In short, the city has permitted and authorized a public nuisance in said street.

To this the city demurred. It says that plaintiff has not claimed that the railroad has done anything unwarranted by its charter, or that anything not necessary under the charter has been done, or that the city has not kept Bath road in repair, or that the city did not act in good faith in permitting the company to lay rails, or in making rules for the company. All that the city did was to pass ordinances. Plaintiff claims that the ordinances show a contract between the city and the company, and make the city a party in the running of the road.

Judge Baker covered the whole matter exhaustively, the court interrupting frequently with questions and observations going to show that argument for the city was almost unnecessary. Mr. Ives argued for plaintiff. Mr. Peckham, associated with Judge Baker, did not think it necessary to reply and the hearing closed.

Decrees were entered in Glynn vs. Zabriskie and Sweeney vs. Same.

In the divorce case of Hafey vs. Hafey, Mr. Ives withdrew his appearance for respondent, saying he thought the parties had come together. For similar reasons Colonel Sheffield discontinued the divorce case of Calhoun vs. Calhoun, and Colonel Honey discontinued Mead vs. Mead. Adeline Barker vs. Fernando Barker was heard and a divorce was granted. The allegations were extreme cruelty and neglect to provide for the wife's subsistence. Colonel Sheffield appeared for the respondent, but there was no opposition at all to the decree. Mr. Galvin appeared for plaintiff.

Several petitions for divorce were down to be heard this afternoon.

DEATH OF REV. WARWICK H. RHUE.

Rev. Warwick H. Rhue died at his home on Pond avenue this morning, of consumption. The deceased was a minister of the Baptist denomination, and had had charge of churches in Leesburg, Va., and Philadelphia. Poor health compelled him to give up his last charge, and about five years ago he came to this city and had since resided here. When the Mt. Olivet Baptist Church was started Rev. Mr. Rhue acted as its temporary pastor until such time as the church could secure a permanent minister. He was recently appointed sexton of the Second Baptist church, and at a recent meeting of the City Council was elected a city bell ringer.

POOR HOUSEWIVES.

Naturally it is only a practical, well-informed housekeeper who can train raw recruits, whatever their nationality; and here is a good place to say that no woman, rich or poor, in town or country, is fit to fill a housekeeper's position in her own house till she understands the business in detail. Half at least of the woes of domestic life and the trials of poor service spring from the incompetency of the housemistress.

From what silly theory did the idea ever come that it is sweetly fascinating in a young wife to profess complacently: "Oh, dear, no! I know nothing in the world about cooking or housekeeping?" Cherry lips and dimples blind one to the smallness of the mind that glories in ignorance; but, as a merchant or a manufacturer acquires technical knowledge before he enters business—for he will hardly ask his clerk to teach him details—so a woman should be trained for her profession, or else the lovely, helpless butterfly will develop into an unsuccessful old wife, baffled by hirelings and under-valued by the husband who thought her ignorance so bewitching before it affected his comfort and well-being.—[Mary C. Hungerford, in Godey Lippincott's.

SPECIAL WIRE TO THE NEWS.

PRESIDENT MORAES MAY RESIGN.

Brazilian House Repeals the Senate Amnesty Bill.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—A special from Rio Janeiro says: The house of representatives of Brazil, by a vote of 115 against 59, has repealed the senate bill granting full amnesty to all the officers of the revolution. President Moraes favored the senate bill, and may resign. An amended bill, permitting the condemned officers to return to the ranks after two years, would not satisfy the opposition. There is a grave probability of a new insurrection in Rio Grande. The rebels, who have not laid down their arms, are under the surveillance of a police patrol.

POW-WOW AND GHOST DANCE.

Kiowa Indians Making Preparations for a Big Celebration.

WICHITA, Kas., Sept. 27.—A courier who arrived last night says that the Kiowa Indians are making great preparations for a big pow-wow and ghost dance, to be held near the mouth of Stinking creek in the Indian Territory the latter part of the week. They are rigging up all manner of strange costumes and tawdry finery, and intend to make day and night hideous for at least a week. These dances have become a disgrace to the Indian department, and it is said that active steps are being taken by the Indian agent to prevent the one announced from being given.

Is Newfoundland's Government Autonomous?

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The Times prints a letter from William Trant of Regina, Canada, in which the writer disputes Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's position, that he is unable to render financial assistance to Newfoundland because that colony is autonomous. Mr. Trant contends that Newfoundland is not autonomous, and in proof of this says that Great Britain compelled the colony to grant to the French privileges which the Islanders dare not refuse, because they know that British guns would uphold the French in their demands.

Physical Force Necessary to Secure Justice for Ireland.

DUBLIN, Sept. 27.—United Ireland, referring to the national convention of Irish societies at Chicago, says it rejoices that Irishmen have not abandoned the idea of using physical force to secure justice for Ireland. They will have to put this idea into practice some day, it adds, and the sooner they prepare to do so the better.

Naphtha Spring in Russia Fired by Lightning.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—A despatch from Baku, Russia, says a naphtha spring near there was set on fire by lightning yesterday. The flames spread to five adjoining springs, causing an immense amount of damage. Three persons lost their lives.

Chinese Officers to be Attached to the Russian Army.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 27.—The czar has sanctioned the attachment of one hundred and twenty-five Chinese officers to the Russian army for a period of three years and the admission of fifty others to Russian military schools.

THE KENTUCKY SENATORSHIP.

Considerable significance is attached to the announcement that Representative Berry is to become a candidate for the Senatorship of Kentucky against Senator Blackburn. It is not believed that Mr. Berry has any hope of being elected, but that his candidacy is intended to draw votes away from Blackburn. The latter has been making a vigorous campaign, and his personal popularity gave him support in quarters where his financial views are not approved. It is the practically unanimous declaration of Kentuckians who have recently visited Washington that his prospects have so much improved during his canvass that his friends are perfectly confident, and the popular impression is that he has practically won the fight. The gold Democrats, who are fighting him because of his disagreement with the administration, are not willing to accept the situation, but, independently of the aspiration of any man of their own factions, are determined if possible yet to accomplish his defeat.

The belief is that no candidate now in the field can defeat him. Earlier in the contest a great effort was made to induce Secretary Carlisle to enter the contest, but the situation was not such as to render this practicable, whatever Mr. Carlisle's inclinations might be. It is thought, however, that the friends of Carlisle have not abandoned the hope that he may be brought in at the critical moment to snatch the election from Blackburn. In the primaries the Senator has the lead to such an extent that if the candidates for the legislature are elected as usual he will be reasonably sure of re-election. The opposition is not content to have the contest settled in the primaries, but expects to make a determined fight after the legislature is elected, however favorable to Blackburn it may appear. By keeping Blackburn in the attitude of merely the leading candidate among a great number, the situation may admit of Carlisle's name being brought in for the first time after the legislature meets.

Mr. Berry is one of Secretary Carlisle's most intimate friends. His candidacy may draw off a few votes from Blackburn that could not be captured by any candidate in the field. His entering the field indicates that there is no disposition on the part of the opponents of Blackburn to give up the fight, and it points significantly to Mr. Carlisle. It means that a great many things may yet happen before the fight is over, and it may be that the worst of the struggle is yet to come. The election of a silver governor of Kentucky is not a matter of nearly as much consequence to the administration as the election of a Senator who will have a vote in Congress to cast in opposition to the administration policy. Mr. Cleveland is seeking to overthrow the silver power in the Senate. To gain a Senator from Kentucky is important to him, and the indorsement of his financial policy by the Kentucky Democratic convention is of little value to him if the man elected to the Senate is a free-silver leader.

The announcement of Mr. Berry's candidacy will probably be followed by others. It is probable that every administration man who can on personal grounds count on the support of any legislative candidate who would otherwise go to Blackburn will avow himself a candidate. Men who have no thought of being elected to the Senate will probably go in to draw one man here and one there from support of Blackburn. It is believed that they hope in this way to bring about a condition of affairs which would warrant Carlisle's permitting the use of his name, and which might result in his election. Berry's intimacy with Carlisle and the circumstances of his entering the field as a candidate gives color to this theory of the intentions of the administration men.—[Washington Star.

JAPANESE WOMEN.

Nothing in Japan appeals more charmingly to the stranger—man or woman—than the sweet and graceful maidens in their beautiful and picturesque costumes of bright-colored silks. The Japanese claim—and not without reason—that nine tenths of what has been published about the sweet daughters of Nippon is absolutely untrue, and was written by men who know but very little of Japan and nothing at all of its women. I remember a long conversation I had on the subject with one of the prettiest and most charming ladies of Tokio, Countess Inouye, whose father-in-law is one of the great statesmen of Japan. The conversation having turned upon the subject of Japanese women, she exclaimed:

"Oh, you foreigners are really too amusing when speaking and writing about us. So much fun I had reading Pierre Lotti and Edwin Arnold! Ah! Ah!—it is more than droll."

"Of what do you reproach them?"

"Reproach them? Why, to be talking of what they know absolutely nothing. Just see Pierre Lotti, for instance. He comes here, spends a few weeks en tete-a-tete with a dancing girl of the very lowest class, whose language he cannot speak, who laughs at him and thinks he is the queerest thing on earth—and who after that goes and writes books about 'Japanese women!' The worst is that foreigners reading these books will come to the conclusion that we are all like Mme. Chrysanthieme."

"But Sir Edwin Arnold speaks in a very different manner."

"Oh, yes, but he does not know much more. He only knows half a dozen charming little ladies, and he is too much of a poet to judge them as a man. He loves them as he loves nature, and would not possibly speak of them in every-day prose. He drapes them in the veils of poesy, and dreams he is in heaven surrounded by angels. It seems so foolish to us."

Every writer on the subject seems to have a different opinion—so different, in fact, that one would be inclined to think that there are several Japans in this world. There is but one, but it contains several classes of women whose conditions are very different.

We laugh at Japanese women dressing in foreign clothes. Certainly they are not as graceful as in their own costumes, for they do not know how to wear the Occidental dresses. The wearing of unfamiliar garments cannot be learned in a day. Let the American girls try on the Japanese dresses without the help of a competent costumer, and see what they will look like—to Japanese eyes.

And now a few words about the morals of Japanese women. It is generally believed in Europe and in America that the morals over there are very low. It is undoubtedly due to the ridiculous and most unreliable stories which globe trotters delight in telling their friends. There is not in the world a more moral people than the Japanese. These globe trotters know absolutely nothing of the Japanese women of the middle or upper classes, and during the few weeks they spend in Japan they only meet the geisha girls, whose business it is to sing and dance and sell their smiles. But such a class of women is to be found in every country, and they are far less degraded in Japan than they are in Paris, London, New York or San Francisco. There can be no comparison. These women in Japan do not live the life of dirt and misery, the disgustingly vicious life of the unfortunate women of the Quartier du Batignolles or of Dupont street. They are well dressed, well fed, well taken care of, well treated. They are comparatively well educated, and are all good musicians. They could not become geisha girls unless they knew how to play on the samisen, sing and dance. They all have excellent manners. Most of them are sold by their parents, who, of course, belong to the very lowest class of people, to individuals who make it a business to give them the needed education, and later hire them out by the hour, the evening, the day, the week or the month. Their "proprietor" lodges and boards them, and gives them the money necessary to buy their pretty clothes. Strange to say, girls of this class who have met a man who took enough fancy to them to buy them back and marry them have uniformly made the best of wives. Many Japanese ladies now prominent used to be geishas. To have a "past" does not prevent a woman from getting into society, provided she actually behaves well. Even the women of the low class, whose morals are loose before they marry, become honest wives as soon as they belong to a husband.

Japanese women do not care much for love—passionate love—as it exists in our country. In fact, it seems unknown to them, and I have come to the conclusion that it's on account of all of them having uniformly dark skin and hair. It is a well-known fact that a man with light hair will most naturally fall in love with a brunette, but seldom with a blonde, and vice versa. In spite of the many stories circulated in their clubs and other places by men who have left a great deal of money in Japan, I can affirm that the women of that country thoroughly dislike foreigners, and have never heard yet of one or them being in love with one of us.

Strange as it may appear, a kiss is an unknown thing in Japan—not unknown to the gay maidens of Yokohama, Kobe or Nagasaki, who have so much to do for the amusement of foreigners—but unknown to the Japanese in general. A lover never kisses his sweetheart—a mother never kisses her child. He made a great mistake, the man who wrote that "a kiss is nature's Volapuk, the universal language of love." You can kiss any Japanese girl. She will not object, for she cannot possibly understand what you mean. She will only think: "What queer people these foreigners are!"

Japanese women have three recreations—smoking, singing and dancing. They smoke most gracefully, as they do everything. This habit was introduced into Japan by the Spaniards some one hundred and fifty years ago. Japanese girls, however, do not smoke cigarettes, like the belles of Andalusia, but pipes, the daintiest little pipes, beautifully ornamented, and holding just enough tobacco for one or two puffs.

And now what of that reputation for beauty which the Japanese women are enjoying—again, thanks to the stories of globe trotters? The fact is that there are fewer pretty girls there than in America, and I have not seen one that was beautiful. The most one can say of a Japanese beauty is: "How pretty she is!" or "How cute!" One could never think of saying: "What a beautiful woman!" And yet the Japanese girl charms every one. She does not charm by her so-called beauty, but by her originality, her gracefulness, her gentleness, her kindness, her sweetness. She is the best-natured woman in the world, the most affable, the most polite and the most amiable.—[A. DeGuerville, in Illustrated American.

This Morning's News.

ON A FALL CAMPAIGN.

Christian Endeavor Officers Begin Journeys to Conventions.

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—President Clark of the United Society of Christian Endeavor today began his fall and winter's work of traveling over the country, addressing conventions. General Secretary Baer also started out today for the west. Dr. Clark is to attend one of the largest of provincial or state meetings, that of the Ontario convention at Bradford. Dr. Clark's next large convention will be at Huntingdon, Que., Oct. 3.

From there he will go to Illinois, one of the greatest of all Christian Endeavor unions, where he addresses the state convention at Bloomington Oct. 3-5. The southside branch of the Chicago union has arranged for a big mass meeting on Oct. 7, to be addressed by the founder of the society.

From that place Dr. Clark will hurry eastward in order to reach the Massachusetts state convention at Pittsfield, Oct. 8-9, where he is to deliver an address and conduct the consecration service.

On Oct. 13 he will go down to Syracuse to speak on Christian Endeavor before the Congregational council.

Three days later he will address the meeting of the American Board of Foreign Missions at Brooklyn on the same subject. His later itinerary is not yet fully mapped out.

Good Results Accomplished.

Speaking of his work just prior to his departure from this city, Dr. Clark stated that the two interests for which Boston stands pre-eminent, good citizenship and evangelistic work, are affecting almost every large gathering of Christian Endeavorers. Several of the state conventions have conducted noonday meetings in shops and factories, similar to those held in Boston, and in every case the greatest success has attended them.

The good citizenship meeting that was planned for Boston Common on the Saturday of the convention, but that had to be held in the tents on account of rain, is being duplicated in smaller degree in many of the Christian Endeavor conventions, state and county. Maine and Pennsylvania have been notable examples of these advances.

COTTOLENE.

Cottolene Cooks

Should remember to use only two-thirds as much Cottolene as they formerly used of lard or butter. With two-thirds the quantity they will get better results at less cost than it is possible to get with lard or butter. When Cottolene is used for frying articles that are to be immersed, a bit of bread should be dropped into it to ascertain if it is at the right heat. When the bread browns in half a minute the Cottolene is ready. Never let Cottolene get hot enough to smoke.

THREE IMPORTANT POINTS: The frying pan should be cold when the Cottolene is put in. Cottolene heats to the cooking point sooner than lard. It never spatters when hot.

The Cottolene trade-marks are "Cottolene" and a steer's head in cotton-plant wreath.

CLAMBAKES AND BALL GAMES.

Yesterday could be called clambake day, for there were large gatherings at the north and south ends of the city. At the north end, at Coddington cove, the Newport wine clerks entertained about twenty of the Providence wine clerks at a clambake and ball game. Caterer D. J. McGowan had charge of the clambake, which the hungry ones said was all right, though a trifle slow in coming up. Billy Carey had charge of the ball game. This was expected to be a feature, and it was. Before the game the visitors, in behalf of the Tockwotten Club, presented Manager Carey with a base ball bat, handsomely tied with ribbons. It was not used in the game, as the bat is too nice to lose.

The visitors had some good ball players in their ranks; that is, there were men who have played in first-class teams, and have not yet entirely lost their memories of the game. They were handicapped somewhat by the grounds. The Newport team was made up as follows: Henry Maher, pitcher; "Crappy," catcher; Borden, first base; McGowan, second base; Dexter Burkinshaw, third base; Adam Trazer, short stop; George Fisher, left field; J. H. Nolan, centre field; B. J. Bryer, right field. Those acquainted with the above-named individuals, and that number includes about all in the city who know anything about sport, have a good idea of what they can do on a ball field. Their strength is in coaching, and not in playing, and how the score was made 5 to 4 at the end of the fifth inning is a mystery to everybody. It is suspected that the umpire had considerable to do with the result, but he could not prevent Providence from winning. The game was full of surprises, and all the participants were enthusiastically applauded. The active third baseman of the Newports opened the surprise party on the very first man at the bat for Providence, catching a nice pop fly. In the third inning he made a double play unassisted, and completely demolished the hopes of the visitors. McGowan, at second, played against Plummer's record in last Tuesday's game, and allowed Nolan, in centre, to pick up everything knocked his way. Good plays, of their kind, were made by almost everybody, and all were sorry when the call to dinner terminated the contest.

At the same time, down at Price's Neck, Mr. Zaccheus Chase was providing a bake for a number of citizens who also tried to show their skill on the base ball field. The field they selected was much more like that of New Bedford than like the even surface the Newport Base Ball Association has provided, but the ball playing was "up to the rip," and the players were last night, before their muscles had begun to ache, talking of challenging the aggregation that Captain Ben Richards managed last Tuesday. Three pitchers were tried in the game, and each was batted hard, but it is agreed that it was not lack of pitching skill but a superabundance of batting ability that caused the outfielders to work so hard. No score was kept, so it is impossible to tell who won. The game had the usual effect of sharpening the appetites of the players, and the bake was pretty effectually demolished.

THE LANTERN PARADE.

The lantern parade which had been arranged by a committee of the Powhattan Cycle Club for last evening was postponed until this evening on account of the rain, which began to fall half an hour before the time for starting the parade. Washington square, where the line was to be formed, was well filled with spectators, and even at that early hour there was a good number of bicycles decorated and ready to be lighted, and more were coming every minute. It was decided that the weather conditions were not at all favorable for the parade, as the wind was blowing too hard for the lanterns and light frameworks w[illegible] several riders had rigged over and about [illegible]vis, and the rain, which before 8 o'clock came down in sharp showers, settled it, and the committee ordered a postponement. Several of the riders were already quite wet, and were only too glad that they were not to be compelled to ride in the rain. A considerable number of the spectators were evidently out for the evening, and remained in doorways and alcoves long after the postponement was announced. They evidently did not care for this, but wished to get a full evening's pleasure outdoors in spite of the rain. There were many very elaborate displays of lanterns, and the parade tonight promises to be even better than last evening's would have been, as the men will have had more time for preparation. The parade will start promptly at 8 o'clock, move up Broadway to Equality Park, and countermarch to Thames street, Narragansett avenue, Bellevue avenue, Kay street, Rhode Island avenue, Broadway, Marlboro, Farewell and Thames streets, to Washington square, where the prizes will be awarded and the line dismissed.

MIDDLETOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

The flag festival under the auspices of the Methodist Episcopal Church promises to be one of the finest entertainments ever held in the town. Everything is being done by the pastor to make it interesting to all who attend. The entertainment is processional and symbolical in character, requiring sixty-three young women in costume and thirteen others to execute it. The Goddess of Liberty and Columbia will have their thrones, with the thirteen original colonies, and the states and territories in position, which, together with the copious decorations, will present a striking picture, emblematic of the genius of Americanism. Instrumental music, pantomimic representations and singing will help to fill up the program. The historical sketch for these representations was composed specially for the purpose by Rev. F. L. Brook, pastor of the church. An old man representing the "Wisdom of Centuries" will meet the Goddess of Liberty with an address of welcome.

Messrs. James H. Barker, Millard F. Smith and Albert A. Anthony were in Kingston Wednesday on business. Mr. Barker bought a fine horse.

Mr. Stephen Durfee is seriously ill with typoid fever at his home on the West Main road.

A very pleasant evening was spent by the members of Aquidneck Grange who attended the meeting last evening. It was matrons' night, and women occupied the officers' chair and conducted the business of the session. After the meeting a pleasing program was carried out, consisting of a reading by Mrs. George E. Ward, a solo by Mr. W. Clarence Peckham, accompanied in the chorus by Mrs. W. Clarence Peckham, Mrs. E. Marion Peckham, and Mrs. B. W. C. Peckham; a solo by Mrs. Howard Peckham, and a pantomimic representation of Cinderella, which was very amusing. Later refreshments were served and the younger portion of the gathering ended the evening's pastime with dancing. The committee in charge was Mrs. W. C. Peckham, Mrs. E. M. Peckham, Mrs. George E. Ward and Mrs. Lewis Manchester.

"THE TWO ORPHANS."

Kate Claxton will appear at the Opera House this evening in the familiar drama, "The Two Orphans," which has been seen by thousands of the American people, and is still as popular as any of the new plays which are put on the stage. The question is often asked: "Why has 'The Two Orphans' outlived thousands of other plays?" In a word one might answer because it has all the elements of success which other plays possess only in a degree. There is scarcely a passion known to humanity that is not shown in its utmost strength, both as cause and effect, in this wonderful play, and withal these fierce human passions are so closely interwoven in the threads of the story that it forms a drama that stands almost unrivalled as regards powerful effects and deepest pathos. In fact, pathos is the key-note struck by a master hand in a way that has drawn the tears of millions of people since its first production.

One writer says: "I doubt if a story of more pathetic interest has ever been or ever will be written than this tale of two friendless girls being left alone in the gay city of Paris, both beautiful and one of them blind; their separation, and the hideous dangers they fall into; the bitter hidden yearning of the countess for the child torn by cruel fate from her breast; the piteous figure of Pierre; the sad history of Marianne, are all phases of life that touch the tenderest chords of our natures."

FOR THE POLICEMEN'S BENEFIT.

The Montreal Daily Star says of the comedy, "Girl Wanted," which is to be given at the Opera House next Tuesday afternoon and evening for the benefit of the Police Relief Fund Association: "A farcical entertainment, in which Frank Bush is the leading man, amused the crowds which attended the Theatre Royal yesterday afternoon and evening. So great was the crowd at the opening of the doors in the evening that police had to be called in to keep them back. The performance never lagged for a moment. Mr. Bush is well known as one of the best character sketch artists upon the American stage, and his presentation of his many parts yesterday justified the esteem in which he is held. Messrs. Lee, Sanford and Dillon also came in for a good deal of favor, and were deserving of it. Misses Mabel Florence, Isabel Ward and Jessie Charron, the ladies in the piece, were also well up to their parts. The music of the orchestra at last evening's performance was of a special nature and well executed. Almost every piece was encored."

NAVAL NOTES.

The steam trial of battleship Texas will take place in a few days.

The official trial trip of Ammen ram Katahdin, which was set down for October 2, will be postponed two weeks, as it was discovered, when she was placed in the dry dock, that her propeller blades were bent.

The Castine has sailed from Cape Town for St. Helena, where she will join the South Atlantic station: the Alliance, from Fort Monroe for New York, and the Machias, from Chinkiang for Yangtse ports.

Chief Engineer E. A. Magee was yesterday ordered before the naval retiring board at the Washington navy yard, for re-examination, the President having declined to approve a previous recommendation for his retirement on account of heart disease.

Mr. Charles Cramp, representing the firm of Cramp & Sons, called upon Secretary Herbert last night and formally notified him that cruiser Brooklyn, under construction at the works of his firm, is ready for launching. The Brooklyn, when completed, will be one of the most formidable vessels in the navy. It was thought, in view of her prospective fighting prowess, that her launch would be attended with great eclat, but after consideration the Crramps have decided to make it a very simple affair.
